SARXL

Société Anonyme à Responsabilité Extrêmement Limitée

illspeed

with Inés Maestre, Pow! Levante and Sem Copeland

du 03.10 au 26.10.2026

I said, “Maybe. But this song I like.”

“All right, if you like it.”

After Sam Coslow left, I said, “I’ve got the new story line.”

Emanuel Cohen gave me a quick worried look. “You what, Mae?”

“A story for your damned sets.”

When Sam Coslow was playing the chorus of “Mademoiselle Fifi,” the entire story came to me, right from the beginning to the end. The fake French girl from Tenth Avenue. I told Emanuel Cohen and Eddie Sutherland to remember every word of the story I was going to tell them, because I might forget what I said. They didn’t want to trust to memory either, so they called in a stenographer to take it down in shorthand.

In about an hour and a half I dictated the story line, with plot and incidents, and introduced the main and minor characters. Later we called it Every Day’s a Holiday.

In my part as Peaches O’Day, who, after selling the Brooklyn Bridge once too often, became Mademoiselle Fifi, I used a black wig. Somehow I had always wanted to have dark hair. “Peaches” was what the boys back in Brooklyn used to call me when I was a kid.

Cassidy Toner
Taken from Mae West - Goodness Had Nothing To Do With It, 1959.

Featuring shirts printed with material originating from the space's past communications and exhibitions.

Two identical racks, each carrying 12 different shirt designs.

The shirts on the first rack, you can PAY for.
The price of each shirt is of 777.—

The shirts on the second rack, you can PLAY for.
In order to receive one of the 12 free shirts available that day, you are invited to Pitch another show at Mae West.

In order to play, write your pitch anonymously on the ticket, and your name + contact on the stub.
Submit both into one of our ballot boxes.

The PLAY rack will be refilled every Saturday.

A selection process will be organized.

One ballot box will be destroyed. A jury will select one winning Pitch.

The selected pitch will be awarded with a Surprise Show, to be organized at Mae West in the future.

All cards and shirts and installation are documented in an edition.
Cards appear anonymously; no names or contacts are published.

PS: Artists who already exhibited in these walls are not allowed to PLAY, but they are still allowed to PAY.

illspeed is a band, a label, a film crew, a party. Its shapeshifting lineup grows and shrinks in sync with breath, ocean tides and moon cycles. For Mae West, Madrid's Inés Maestre, NYC's Sem Copeland and ex-Berliner Pow! Levante present SARXL.

Their debut EP, "surrender", came out in June 2026, with a video directed by Valentina Parati. It stars Arno Frisch, early 90's posterboy of Haneke's movies and a regular at Pow!'s old bar in Berlin, now back on screen and looking for renewed success.

Mae West bénéficie du soutien de:

LOTERIE ROMANDE · Ville de Lausanne · Sandoz Fondation Philanthropique Famille Sandoz · fondation suisse pour la culture prohelvetia · canton de vaud